From critical care air ambulance to international repatriations and in-flight medical escorts, each patient's aeromedical care needs are unique. When time is of the essence, it is crucial to choose an air medical transport service that can provide suitable options and arrange the correct solutions without delay.

The task of finding qualified air medical providers with the availability to match your transport needs and requirements may seem overwhelming. That is where Air Medical Transport comes in. We can manage the entire process for you, so that you can rest assured your loved one is in good hands.

Air Medical Transport is a Transportation Management Organization (TMO) whose leadership has over 20 years of hands-on experience in international air ambulance, ground ambulance, and patient logistics. We have directed, supervised, planned, and coordinated thousands of patient medical transports on six continents, consequently, we have collaborated to save lives.

Our experience and reputation have enabled us to build partnerships with reliable medical transportation providers worldwide. This means we can offer high-quality care and cost-effective services even for the most critical and delicate domestic and international air medical transportation challenges.

Our professional flight coordinators specialists can coordinate all levels of care, including bedside-to-bedside transitions that require everyone involved to be well informed for the critical care continuum.

Our Commitment to Our Clients

At Air Medical Transport, we understand how hard it can be to find a quality air ambulance service that listens and truly understands your needs. From our initial communication with clients right through to transport completion, compassion guides our actions, and we are there to support our clients through every step of the journey.

We are assertive, detail-oriented and believe that effective communication prevents errors, saving time and unnecessary spending. We seize the opportunity to be effective in every air transport case and leverage our experience to provide practical service solutions that are efficient and professional. Our experience in global air medical transportation logistics, our sense of urgency, and the use of technology help us provide unbeatable service, communication, transport management and coordination for our clients.

Air Medical Transport is dedicated to making a difference in our industry for our clients, patients, and loved ones. We love and take pride in what we do. That is why Air Ambulance Transportation is Our Passion.

Sincerely,

Services

Domestic & International Fixed-Wing Air Ambulance

We can arrange bedside-to- bedside fixed-wing air ambulance transport virtually anywhere in the world with safe and appropriate access to public airport runways. These Mobile Intensive Care Unit (MICU) airplanes and jets are staffed with specialized flight-trained critical care personnel, Advanced Life Support (ALS) equipment, and medical stretchers. We offer our clients a selection of options based on their requirements and needs when choosing our service.

International Commercial Stretcher

For bedridden patients who are hemodynamically fit to fly on a commercial airline stretcher, we arrange aeromedical clearance and critical care medical personnel. Two medical escorts will accompany the patient to monitor his condition at all times from and to major airport hubs and gateways for international transport.

Medical Escort

We arrange medical clearance and transportation in a first-class or business class passenger seat on a commercial airline with a critical care medical escort. Suitable for stable patients who can safely be transported on an airline passenger seat, can use a wheelchair, and walk a few steps with one-medical escort assist.

Bedside-To-Bedside Service

For patients that require continuous medical care, Air Medical Transport works with sending and receiving doctors, case managers, and medical personnel to synchronize each aeromedical and ground transport link, ensuring everybody involved stays well informed to enhance the continuity of care.

Benefits

What Our Clients Can Expect

At Air Medical Transport, we understand how hard it can be to choose a quality air ambulance service that properly listens, understands, and advocates for its clients.

Here are some of the reasons why Air Medical Transport is an outstanding choice for your air medical transportation needs:

★ RAPID QUOTES: We offer clients a practical and convenient way to obtain quotes and make bookings.
